Making the most of a young person's employment supports webinar

Finding the right support in employment is an essential element in ensuring a person with disability achieves success in a role.

It's about finding the right 'match' ...but there is so much more to consider!

In this webinar we'll share approaches, strategies and tips for families and allies, to help you find the right job supports for the person with disability in your life so they achieve the best employment outcomes. We will also explore how to maximise NDIS Employment Supports so your family member can make the most of their employment goals!

Our approach is different from methods traditionally used in the disability sector; we aim to provide strategies that offer a more individualised approach to support, resulting in the person being more authentically included.

We'll cover:

- Finding the right match
- Role of the job coach
- Characteristics of a good job coach
- How to match a person's vision and goals to the right supports
- The employment supports the NDIS fund for people with disability
- How to use NDIS employment supports creatively.

Who is this webinar for?

Families, professionals and service providers who want to support the person with disability in their life into genuine employment. Employers who have hired (or are considering hiring) a person with disability.

What is School To Work?
